FOREWORD

Theses submitted to Universities for Doctorate degrees are an important segment of research literature. But very few of the accepted theses are published; and although the published theses are usually entered in the National bibliographies, the entry does not always reveal that it represents a thesis accepted by a University. The bibliographic control of the theses is, therefore, important and at the same time difficult to achieve.

Many Universities include details about the theses accepted by them for Ph.D. in their annual reports which are not easily accessible in libraries. Some Universities have individually published lists of theses accepted by them. But there is no regularity about such publications and these are rarely maintained up to date. The Inter-University Board of India and Ceylon have recently undertaken "to bring out a consolidated list of theses, subjectwise, in respect of doctoral degrees conferred by Indian Universities since 1857, the year in which the presidency universities were established." It is expected that about 15,000 theses will be included in a series of publications which will be completed by 1972. The main difficulty with this publication is that it comes too late to be of full use.

The Indian Council of Social Science Research which was established only a year ago, therefore, decided to publish annual volumes of theses in social sciences accepted by Universities and Institutions deemed to be Universities. The present volume, which is the first in the second series (designated as 'B'), includes the theses in social sciences accepted during the year 1968. The second volume for 1969 is almost ready and will be published soon. Thereafter each annual volume will be put out as speedily as possible after the year ends. The Council has also made plans to bring out a retrospective volume of theses accepted by the Indian universities since their inception to 31st December, 1967. This retrospective volume will constitute series A of the bibliography of the theses and will take some time to be ready; but the work on it has already been initiated.

The volume for 1968 includes 266 theses from 42 Universities and Institutions. The arrangement is alphabetical, first by names of Universities, and then by Institutions. The entries under each University are further arranged by six associated subject-fields which are the principal areas of social sciences in which the Council's own work is divided. Entries under each subject-field are arranged alphabetically by the authors of theses, followed by the name of Professor who guided the research and then by the name of the College or the institution through which the author actually submitted the theses to the University.

Three indexes are provided: The Author index, Guide index and Subject index.

The index reference, it may be pointed out, is a departure from the usual page reference. It includes an abbreviation of the name of the University, followed in parenthesis by the serial number of the entry in the text under that University, followed by the symbol for the series which, in this case, is uniformly B. This provides a unique number for each thesis, never to be changed, and provides a sequential continunity for the theses accepted by each University to be included in subsequent annual volumes. This unique number for the theses will later be used in any other publications of the Council where a reference to the thesis may be required. At the moment, the decision is to maintain series B over a period of ten years, beginning with 1968.

It is not claimed that the theses included in this publication are exhaustive of all the theses accepted by all Indian Universities and Institutions in social sciences in the year 1968. There may be some inadvertent omissions. Any information received later about such theses will be incorporated in subsequent volumes suitably, and it is hoped that a five year cumulation will be as nearly exhaustive as possible of the theses accepted during the period.

The Council wishes to thank all the Universities and Institutions which supplied information about the theses. But for their willing cooperation, this volume would never have seen the light of the day.
